Ask a Muslim Anything

On Tuesday, May 7 at 7pm, photojournalist Robert Azzi will be at the East Kingston Public Library to give a short presentation about himself and answer any questions you may have about him or his religion. "People don't know what they don't know...I want to open up new perspectives for my readers - especially for those who don't often agree with me - and expose them to points-of-view I believe are important and which they might not have previously considered." Library Extension

Have you ever heard of Library Extension? This web-based program can be downloaded into your chrome browser. Choose your preferred library and then, once you search for a book in Amazon, Goodreads, Google, or any other kind of online shopping place, Library Extension tells you if your library has a copy of the book! This saves you money and helps to support your local library. The program is free to download and only takes seconds to set up. Try it out today, at libraryextension.com

Kanopy

Coming up on our six-month usage of Kanopy, we figured we'd feature it again, to spread the word! This movie streaming service is free with your library card number. Each library card gets 10 free movie/show viewings a month. Kanopy features all kinds of movies, such as the classic "Catch-22", or the more recent award winner "Moonlight." There are even options for kids! Kanopy takes many different kinds of books, like Mo Willem's Pigeon series, and makes it into a story time movie. Along with the literary classics, they also have movies like Curious George and Charlotte's Web! If you haven't tried Kanopy yet, please take a look. You won't be disappointed!
